II. Course Description:

This course is one of the University General Requirements. It is a prerequisite to other specialized courses which are offered in English. It is designed to provide students with the required knowledge and skills in English language related to their field of study. It provides students with the basic aspects of academic-oriented English to develop their academic language proficiency for university study by covering language areas and skills (listening, speaking, reading and writing) which enable them to understand and use English in settings and contexts related to their fields of study. It covers wide range of topics related to their fields of study with a view to introduce them to the required subject-related terminology. It also provides students with the opportunity to take part in interactive and communicative activities representing their future professional careers. By the end of the course, learners are expected to fulfill upper intermediate level (B2) on the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR).

V. Teaching strategies of the course:

The main focus is put on students' activity during classes, their interaction with each other and teacher. Communicative method of language teaching is to be used. Exercises are prepared so that they facilitate the understanding of the text and practice the vocabulary and other characteristics of the language related to the profession. Some of the exercises are prepared so that they inspire students to practice their language skills by using their wider knowledge of the subject matter. In short, instructors should use a variety of teaching strategies, in-class activities and teaching aids that can create an interesting and motivating learning environment. This includes:

Lecture Tutorials

Tutorials problem solving case study independent study practical lab sessions (listening and pronunciation exercises) Individual and group work Mini-writing projects Presentations Role-plays Seminars and workshops

VI. Teaching strategies of the course:

The main focus is put on students' activity during classes, their interaction with each other and teacher. Communicative method of language teaching is to be used. Exercises are prepared so that they facilitate the understanding of the text and practice the vocabulary and other characteristics of the language related to the profession. Some of the exercises are prepared so that they inspire students to practice their language skills by using their wider knowledge of the subject matter. In short, instructors should use a variety of teaching strategies, in-class activities and teaching aids that can create an interesting and motivating learning environment. This includes:

> Lecture Tutorials problem solving case study independent study practical lab sessions (listening and pronunciation exercises) Individual and group work Mini-writing projects Presentations Role-plays Seminars and workshops
